DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-10, drawn to operation state of filters, classified in class 370, subclass 216.
 - II. Claims 11-16, drawn to possible reassignment of filters, classified in class 370, subclass 342.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as such as monitoring the state of an assigned filter for gross failures (see applicant's specification at e.g., page 26, lines 3-16). Invention II has separate utility such as the possible reassignment of filters and in particular preventing for deassigning module from an interferer when the interferer is in a temporary fading situation (see applicant's specification e.g., at page 24, lines 25-28). Thus invention I is considered for fault detection and Invention II is considered an optimization step in assigning filters. See MPEP § 806.05(d). In particular, at issue is the limitation of "bypassing any of the assigned filters that are not operating properly" for Invention I as supported e.g., as step 210 in figure 10 of applicant's specification and "identifying fading narrowband channels having signal strengths that do not exceed the threshold and that were previously identified as exceeding the threshold, based on how long the identified narrowband channels have not exceeded the threshold" for invention II as supported e.g., as step 300 in figure 14 of applicant's specification. In particular, the second invention requires comparing signal strengths and based on a time constraint. It appears from teachings of applicant's specification that invention does not require the above recited limitations with respect to "bypassing any of the assigned filters that are not operating properly". In particular, examples of detection can further be found e.g., at page 26 of applicant's specification where determining if a failure occurs does not require a threshold or a time constraint. Thus the inventions are distinct.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. A telephone call was made to Chirag B. Patel on 9/2/2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made. In particular, applicant requested the above restriction in writing.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
